Standing on the Sunshine State Parkway (now Florida’s Turnpike) in northwest Broward in the early 1960’s and looking west, all anyone saw for miles was scrubland. Unless, like real estate developer Ken Behring, you had the vision to see what could be.

What was a tunnel and narrow road used to move livestock could become a six lane east-west access like Commercial Boulevard. The miles of dirt and weeds could be turned into housing communities, with maintenance and recreational facilities included. And, those communities could become the basis of a thriving city now celebrating its 50th anniversary.

According to Mr. Behring, “The purpose of Tamarac was to give people a way of life where they could move down from the north where it was snowing and, for a very reasonable fee, own a house in Florida and have it maintained so they could lock the doors, go back home in the summer and not have to worry about it.”

Incorporated in 1963, the city that evolved from a patchwork of empty fields now covers 12-square miles. No longer just for snowbirds, more than 60,000 residents and 2,000 businesses have come to realize that Tamarac is truly “The City for Your Life”.

Tamarac has planned a year filled with celebrations to mark its 50th anniversary, and kicked it off with a special reception and proclamation honoring Mr. Behring. See the pullout section elsewhere in Tamarac A-Gram for a listing of 2013 events, and check out the video which tells the City’s story at www.tamarac.org.

Significant steps are being taken to ensure the City continues to thrive over the next 50 years. From studies on the redevelopment of commercial districts and the design of corridors to help establish a sense of place, to an enhanced commitment to performance excellence, Tamarac is building toward a very bright future.
Whether it’s the access to major roadways, the availability of quality space or the ease of working with the City, more and more businesses are calling Tamarac home. Case in point: ecommerce software provider 3dcart.

The company has been experiencing rapid growth over the last few years; so much so that they’ve moved offices twice in neighboring cities. When they outgrew the last location, 3dcart executives turned to Tamarac for a place they could finally call home: a 17,000 square foot building to house a growing base of employees and allow for future expansion.

“When we saw this nice building in the Tamarac Commerce Park, we were interested right away,” said Jimmy Rodriguez, the firm’s Chief Technical Officer. “It has great access thanks to the Sawgrass Expressway, and there are hotels and restaurants right around the corner which is great for clients who visit us from out of town.”

The company provides ecommerce services including website building, order management and marketing tools. “We work with more than 16,000 online merchants and that number is growing. As a result, our company is also growing,” said 3dcart CEO Gonzalo Gil. The company currently has 60 employees and postings for a number of new positions. “The City of Tamarac makes it more attractive to come and work for 3dcart,” added Mr. Rodriguez. “Our employees couldn’t be happier; it’s a great place to work and live.”

There’s a business reason behind the City of Tamarac’s decision to purchase foreclosed homes and ready them for resale: it just makes good financial sense. But there are program benefits that are far less tangible, like providing the only opportunity a single mother of two might have to own her own home.

Elementary school teacher Joanne Dyer spent most of 2012 trying to buy a house. While doing her research, she found out about Tamarac’s Neighborhood Stabilization Program (NSP) which allows income-eligible homebuyers to buy single family homes that have been purchased and rehabilitated by the City. These homes are brought up to code and, when applicable, upgraded to meet energy efficiency, disaster mitigation and green housing standards.

“Programs like NSP are among the many reasons Tamarac considers itself “The City for Your Life”. According to Jennifer Bramley, Director of Community Development, “We have the chance to provide a new home for a deserving family, while improving values and stability in a neighborhood.”

“Ms. Dyer and her daughters Cherokie and Cheyenne moved into the house just before New Year’s. “I’m so glad to have a piece of real estate in South Florida,” she said. “This will allow me to save money and build a legacy for my kids.”

“I’m excited about this opportunity,” Ms. Dyer added. “I’m grateful that Tamarac helped me achieve my dream.”

Among the new businesses opening in Tamarac is the already popular Krispy Kreme, located in the Sunshine Plaza.
Studies Help Prepare For the Next 50 Years

Crucial to the continued growth of any city is the revitalization of its commercial areas. To position itself for the future, the City of Tamarac is conducting a Commercial Redevelopment Study focused on three key areas along major corridors. These areas, narrowed down from all commercial districts in the City, include:

- The commercial areas in the vicinity of University Hospital,
- The northeast corner of University Drive and Commercial Boulevard, and
- The northwest corner of SR 441 and Commercial Boulevard

The study is designed to help position the City’s commercial areas to be more competitive for redevelopment opportunities; identify current and future market demand, and identify the 10-year potential for key uses and activities within Tamarac.

Three community workshops have been held to gather input for the study, the final version of which will provide recommendations regarding zoning as well as those specific markets to target for growth.

Tamarac is also studying the major arterial corridors within the City to help develop a vision for the way they look and function in the future. The four roadways under study include University Drive from Southgate Boulevard to Commercial Boulevard, SR 7 from the northern to southern City limit, Commercial Boulevard from the Sawgrass Expressway to Prospect Road, and McNab Road from its western terminus to NW 70th Avenue.

Design initiatives to be considered include:
- Gateway treatments
- Streetscape, hardscape and signage opportunities
- Residential buffer wall analysis and design

Phase I of the study included a community workshop, where those interested got the opportunity to provide input and share their vision for the major corridors. Corridor Study recommendations designed to help establish a sense of place, along with the results of the Commercial Redevelopment Study, are expected by spring.

Working Together Toward Code Compliance

Tamarac residents place a high priority on community appearance, as they should: it not only affects well-being, it affects the wallet. Community appearance has a direct impact on both property value and safety. With this in mind, the City has launched a community-wide code compliance effort in several neighborhoods.

The Neighborhood Improvement Program, called Operation NIP It, is a multi-phased collaboration between Tamarac and area homeowner associations. Code enforcement officers will work hand-in-hand with the HOAs to explain the program, discuss the violations which affect curb appeal like debris, dirty roofs and lax landscaping, and set a schedule for compliance. Courtesy notices will first be issued to violators, with a 30-day timeframe for making corrections.

Financial assistance of up to $1,000 may be available for homes within the NIP It-designated areas. The money may be available as a grant, a matching grant, or a zero interest loan. A total of $40,000 has been set aside to help homeowners make the improvements needed.

For additional information on the City’s code compliance efforts, visit www.tamarac.org.
The City of Tamarac chose America Recycles Day, November 15, to become the first city in the nation to reward residents for recycling – whether they live in single family homes, condominiums or apartment complexes. With the expanded rewards program residents can earn Recyclebank points for taking every day “green” actions, which they can use to redeem for discounts and deals from hundreds of local and national brands. Tamarac’s partnership with Recyclebank is geared toward boosting recycling rates in the City and encouraging more citizens to live an eco-conscious lifestyle. Residents can sign up for the program at www.recyclebank.com/wm.

Tamarac Marks a National Recycling First

Tamarac kicked off its expanded recycling-for-rewards program, which now includes multi-family communities, at the Kings Point community. Pictured are Kara Fitzpatrick, Recyclebank, Tamarac Commissioners Diane Glasser and Pamela Bushnell, Kings Point resident Judy Dubrow and Dawn McCormick of Waste Management.

Judah Sommer, 2 ½, is one of Tamarac’s youngest recyclers.

Optimizing Public Safety

Public safety is a priority for the City and, while residents do feel safe, satisfaction surveys show that crime prevention and increased police visibility are ongoing priorities for the community as well. That’s why Tamarac’s 2013 budget includes resources to put “more feet on the street”: additional uniformed officers from the Broward Sheriff’s Office patrolling throughout the City.

Five additional police officers have been added to the Tamarac district, bringing the total to 81, and the City will now be divided into a total of 9 police zones for better administration and better coverage.

“The additional officers help provide the degree of safety the City and our residents expect,” said City Manager Michael Cernech. “And we meet regularly with BSO commanders to make certain that performance levels remain high.”
Dorothy Willis, actress, singer, playwright and longtime resident of Tamarac has been honored for her contributions to the arts. The City Commission declared December 12, 2012 as Dorothy Willis Appreciation Day, to honor the woman who helped found what evolved into the Tamarac Theater of the Performing Arts, where she now serves as President.

Mrs. Willis began her show business career at the age of 17 and performed solo at New York’s Carnegie Hall and Madison Square Garden. She moved to Tamarac in 1979 with her husband Chester and their children, and has been entertaining the residents of Broward County for over 3 decades.

Mrs. Willis was also recognized as a Pioneer by the Broward County Historical Commission.

Tamarac Mayor Beth Talabisco has thrown down the gauntlet to individuals and organizations in the City to tally their volunteer hours to help meet Broward County’s “Together We Serve” Challenge. Issued by the president of the Broward League of Cities, the countywide challenge seeks to track one million volunteer hours over a 12-month period.

“We’re encouraging Tamarac’s faith-based groups, along with sports organizations, civic and charitable organizations and any and all individuals to participate,” said Mayor Talabisco. “Volunteering strengthens communities, solves problems and improves lives. It’s the volunteer spirit and the unselfish hours committed that help make our community a better place to live.”

Eligible volunteer hours are those performed from May 2012 to May 2013 with organizations throughout the County. The league has set up a real-time monitor on its website, www.browardleague.org, where individuals and organizations can tally their hours.

Volunteer Excellence

“There is no greater agony than bearing an untold story inside you.”  — Maya Angelou

To instill the confidence in others to write: that’s the goal of volunteer Janice Indek (or, as her readers know her, Antonia Phillips Rabb). She came to the City eight years ago with an idea to start a writing group; that group has evolved into the Tamarac Writer’s Café. Participants come from all walks of life, all ages, occupations and experiences. They have one thing in common: an interest in writing their memoirs, essays, poetry and, best of all, short stories to bequeath to their grandchildren.

Janice is passionate about the group and helping unlock their potential. Her guidance and understanding validate creativity and self-expression, encourage growth, and profoundly impact participants. Congratulations for being named Tamarac’s Volunteer of the Quarter.
Tamarac’s Own Scores Gold in International Competition

Capt. Tony Chin of Tamarac Fire Rescue was part of the gold medal winning team at the 2012 International Medical Rescue competition held in the Czech Republic. The contest focused on the coordination of crews during simulated emergencies and the professional abilities of individual crew members. He and his teammates from Miramar and North Lauderdale beat out 20 international teams in their division. The skills Capt. Chin refines in competitions like this are shared with his co-workers in Tamarac and help prepare him for the wide variety of life saving situations he may face here at home.

Capt. Chin was recognized by the Tamarac City Commission for his achievement.

Dream Big, Hope Big, Relay Big!

Because cancer never sleeps, for one night a year neither do they. If you’d like to form a team, register at the event website, www.relayforlife.org/tamaracfl.

Grants Make City Dollars Go Farther

Faced with the ongoing challenge of doing more with limited budget dollars, the City of Tamarac has increased its emphasis on leveraging that money with grants. Staff focuses on tracking down grant money on a local, state and national basis to support key initiatives around the City.

Here are grants that Tamarac has recently been awarded:

$49,197

Florida EMS (Emergency Medical Services) Grant
For hydraulic power stretcher lifts to better assist fire rescue personnel when transporting bariatric patients for medical care.
Financial Reporting Recognized for Excellence

The City of Tamarac has been commended for excellence in financial reporting by the Government Finance Officers Association for the comprehensive annual financial report for fiscal year 2011. The award recognizes going above and beyond to provide comprehensive reports “that evidence the spirit of transparency and full disclosure.” This is the twenty-fourth consecutive year the City has received this award, and the twenty-seventh overall.

Tamarac Saves Residents $1 Million with Flood Plain Rating

The City of Tamarac has earned a new rating from the National Flood Insurance Program which will result in over $1 million in annual savings for residents. The Community Rating System’s Class 6 rating means a 20% discount retroactive to October 1, 2011, on the 13,457 residential and business flood insurance policies in the city.

Employees from Tamarac’s Public Services, Community Development and Building departments work closely with representatives of the Insurance Services Office to assess and update current flood plan management practices. Staff members continually identify areas of potential improvement for Tamarac’s flood plain management activities, in order to maximize participation and credit through the Community Rating System.

Tamarac has taken further steps to reduce incidents of flooding and property damage by adopting the Broward County Local Mitigation Strategy. City workers regularly inspect waterways, pump stations, culverts and catch basins, and sweep streets to keep drains free of debris, as well as maintain a full schedule of projects necessary to improve the system.

Florida EMS (Emergency Medical Services) Grant
Funding to replace 2 cardiac monitors/defibrillators with multi-functional models that are more capable of assisting patients in cardiac arrest.

Residential Construction Mitigation Program Grant
For residents to make their homes more capable of weathering a storm.

Bus Livability Grant
For bus shelters throughout the city.

Justice Assistance Grant Program
Funding for a Broward Sheriff’s Office detail to increase police presence at local businesses. This grant request directly relates to the City’s customer survey which indicated the desire for a greater police presence.
